A VOICE for the SPORT

NCAA Participation Cap Formula Needs To Be Thrown Out!

BY BRENT RUTEMILLER

It was on the final night of this year's men's NCAA Division I Swimming and Diving Championships in Federal Way, Wash., when I looked up into the stands and saw empty seats on both sides of the venue.

The natatorium seats 2,500. My best guess is that 1,500 spectators were present to watch the crowning moment of what many believe is the most exciting annual competition in our sport.

I could not help but think that I was witnessing the tipping point in what appears to be the devolution of men's NCAA DI swimming. To put it bluntly, it is like watching a bathtub drain. The water level drops inch by inch as more water goes out. It is barely noticeable at first, but when it gets to those last few inches, it begins to swirl faster and faster, pulling other things down with it.

Only 42 men's teams were allowed to compete in the DI championship meet this year versus 64 women's teams. That is a huge disparity. I say "allowed" to compete because participation for the men's meet is capped at 270 athletes versus 322 for the women. The participation cap number is determined by an NCAA formula that is based on the overall number of NCAA athletes in the sport nationally, per gender.

When the NCAA championship committee adds up all the participating athletes, per school, by gender, the overall total determines the number of male and female athletes that will be allowed to participate in the championship meet. The resulting number is called the participation cap.

Once again, it all comes back to the unintended ripple effect of Title IX. Athletic directors are required to balance their institutions with an equal number of male and female participants. As we all know, more and more ADs are cutting male programs or are requiring male swim programs to field smaller teams while asking the female programs to increase their rosters. They rationalize by saying that the number imbalance between the male and female swim teams is needed in order to put the entire athletic department for all sports in balance.

It is wrong when individual institutions make decisions to balance their own departments, and the results of their action affect the entire sport and the quality of the NCAA championship meets on a national level.

As a result, there is no gender equity on the NCAA DI championship level when 24 fewer men's teams than women's are allowed to participate. The NCAA is a national association of institutions. Shouldn't the same balance apply on a national level?

The NCAA's mission, by definition, is to be "an inclusive culture that fosters equitable (fair) participation for student-athletes...." By limiting the number of male participants on the championship level, is it going against its own mission of being "fair"? More significantly, the NCAA is party to the draining of the male sport by giving ADs more reasons to cut teams—at least 24 teams—that do not succeed in making it to the championship level.

This current NCAA DI participation cap formula for championship meets needs to be thrown out before everyone gets caught in the swirl! ♦

WOMEN'

This Bears

BY JASON MARSTELLER • PHOTOS BY PETER H. BICK

The University of California Golden Bears won their second straight women's NCAA Division I title—and third in the last four years.

AUBURN, Ala.—The University of California-Berkeley is joining some elite company in women's NCAA Division I swimming and diving circles.

In the 31-year history of the NCAA women's championships, Stanford (8) and Texas (7) are the runaway leaders in national titles, followed by Auburn (5) and Georgia (4). And in just four short years, Cal has now won three championships—with hopes of winning more...soon!

Cal's incoming recruiting class for next fall will boast the likes of American record holder Elizabeth Pelton and Swimming World's 2011 Co-High School Swimmer of the Year Rachel Bootsma.

But let's not get ahead of ourselves. For now, Coach Teri McKeever has her Golden Bears right where she wants them—competing with the best. And for the second year in a row, Cal is the best! The women's team tallied 412.5 points to claim a 46.5-point triumph over Georgia, March 15-17, at the James E. Martin Aquatic Center on the campus of Auburn University. It was the same 1-2 finish as last year's. In fact, the top five teams placed in exactly the same order as they did a year earlier: Cal, Georgia, USC, Stanford and Arizona!

"One of the things that we talk about (at California) is the idea of our team always being consistently at the top," McKeever said. "Our goal with this senior class was to have a trophy every year—and they left with three of them!"

WOMEN'S NCAA—continued from 8

A year from now, Cal will be out to win its third straight championship. Even more, so will its men! The only Division I program that has won three straight titles for both women and men is Stanford (1992-94).

"We are really excited about the future," said McKeever. "This year was a challenge with the target on our back, and the target likely just got bigger."

Making this year's challenge possible were phenomenal performances from junior Caitlin Leverenz—the NCAA Swimmer of the Meet—super soph Cindy Tran and senior leaders Liv Jensen and Sara Isakovic.

"We talked coming in that we really wanted to get all of our relays in the top eight, then just try to maximize each individual performance," McKeever said. "The senior leadership has been phenomenal all year, and this weekend in particular. Our seniors are a really special group, and we are going to miss them. But it will be time for people such as Cindy Tran and Caitlin Leverenz to step up into that leadership role."

CAL BEARS GOLDEN

From Day 1, Cal showed it was plenty motivated to defend its 2011 team title, winning three of the first six events.

Jensen probably best personified that motivation in the way she prepared for the 50 yard free. She won the event two years ago, but Auburn's Arianna Vanderpool-Wallace beat her to the wall last year. As the defending champion, the Auburn senior received the pre-meet hype to the point of prognosticators picking her to become the first female swimmer to break 21 seconds in the event.

"Honestly, I have been thinking about (this race) for a long time," Jensen said. "The way I think about it is people say she's the defending champion, but no one had this race yet. I knew I could do it, and I knew I had the motivation. She is a great racer, and it was a great race."

Jensen won the 50 in 21.48, ahead of Arizona's Margo Geer (21.64). Vanderpool-Wallace was insets ▸ Cindy Tran turned in the second fastest performance ever in the 100 yard back (50.31) and led off Cal's two winning, record-setting medley relays.

third (21.65).

One event earlier, the third of the evening, Leverenz displayed the talent that would earn her Swimmer of the Meet, setting an American, U.S. Open and NCAA record in the 200 IM (1:51.77). From there, she would also set an American record in the 400 IM with a second-place 3:57.89 and come within a hundredth of a second of breaking Rebecca Soni's American, U.S. Open and NCAA mark in the 200 breast with her winning 2:04.76.

"Caitlin has been a joy to coach this year," McKeever said. "She struggled her freshman year, and we just really challenged her to see what she wanted to accomplish internationally and collegiately. We are really proud of how she responded. It's going to be exciting to see what she does this summer."

Cal tallied two more individual wins when Tran turned in the second fastest performance ever in the 100 back (50.31), and Isakovic won the 100 fly (51.49). As McKeever explained before the meet, the team set a goal to make the championship final in all five relays. They did so in a big way with an American, U.S. Open and NCAA record (1:34.24) in the 200 medley (Tran, Leverenz, Colleen Fotsch and Jensen) and a U.S. Open and NCAA record (3:28.10) in the 400 medley (Tran, Leverenz, Isakovic and Katherine Raatz).

Cal also took second in the 200 and 800 freestyle relays as well as fifth in the 400 free relay—the meet's final event that basically proved to be a victory lap, as the Bears had already clinched the team title after the previous event when Kahley Rowell placed fifth in the 10-meter diving for 14 points and an insurmountable 50.5-point lead.

RUNNER-UP GEORGIA...AGAIN

Yes, Georgia has had its share of national championships. It's won four of the last 14 meets—third best on the women's NCAA DI national title list—including three in a row from 1999 to 2001.

But in the last 11 years, the Bulldogs have finished in second place seven times...including this year for the second straight time and third in the last four years. In fact, each time Cal has won, Georgia was the runner-up! Of course, the upside of all this is that Coach Jack Bauerle's team has finished first or second 11 times since 1999—a statistic that many a team would enjoy having!

Of course, in scoring 366 points, you're naturally going to have several impressive performances. And that's exactly what Georgia had.

PICTURED » Junior Megan Romano starred for Georgia, setting an American, NCAA and U.S. Open record in the 200 free and turning in what is believed to be the fastest women's 100 yard freestyle split (46.07) in anchoring the Bulldogs' 400 medley relay.

WOMEN'S NCAA's — continued from 11

The Bulldogs were without their two-time defending champ in the 200 free and three-time defending champ in the 500. Allison Schmitt, who redshirted this year to train with North Baltimore Aquatics heading into this summer's U.S. Olympic Trials.

In her absence, junior Megan Romano captured the spotlight, setting an American, NCAA and U.S. Open record of 1:41.21 in the 200 free. The previous night (Day 1), she turned in what is believed to be the fastest women's 100 yard freestyle relay split with a 46.07 anchor on Georgia's 10th-place 400 medley squad. On the meet's final day, she finished second behind Vanderpool-Wallace in the 100 free with a 47.01 before nearly matching her first day's relay split by anchoring Georgia's third-place 400 free relay in 46.11.

Georgia's team of Shannon Vreeland, Jordan Mattern, Amber McDermott and Romano won the 800 free relay in 6:55.96.

MORE PAC-12 HEROICS

The University of Southern California and Stanford also had particularly strong team outings, securing third and fourth in the team rankings. With Cal finishing first and Arizona fifth, the Pac-12 Conference boasted four of the top five teams for the second straight year.

USC was led by last year's NCAA Swimmer of the Meet, Katinka Hosszu, who defended her titles in the 200 fly (1:51.32) and 400 IM (3:56.54, in which she broke the previous U.S. Open and NCAA standard by 1.68 seconds). She just missed winning the 200 IM in back-to-back years, finishing 3-hundredths behind Leverenz' record performance.

The Women of Troy added two more individual titles: Haley

Anderson (500 free, 4:34.48) and Victoria Ishimatsu (one-meter diving, 354.10).

Stanford earned most of its points in sprint freestyle, including bookend wins in the 200 and 400 free relays. Samantha Woodard, Madeline Schaefer, Andrea Murez and Elizabeth Webb opened this year's NCAA's with a victory in the 200 (1:26.85), with the same quartet ending the meet in the 400 (3:10.77) with an American record.

In the 100 and 200 free alone, the Cardinal claimed seven finalists—four among the top eight and three in consols.

ODDS & ENDS

■ The oldest NCAA record on the books was finally broken. Janet Evans' 1990 mark of 15:39.14 in the 1650 had been the only NCAA Division I women's standard still standing since the turn of the century.

Both North Carolina's Stephanie Peacock and Georgia's Wendy Trott finished faster than Evans' time, with Peacock securing the victory by a mere 15-hundredths of a second in 15:38.79—the closest women's NCAA DI finish ever in that event.

■ Texas A&M, which will be competing in the Southeastern Conference next year, had an outstanding final meet as a member of the Big 12. The Aggies picked up their third and fourth individual NCAA titles on the way to a sixth-place team finish.

Breeja Larson cracked Tara Kirk's 2006 American, U.S. Open and NCAA record in the 100 breast by 6-hundredths of a second with a winning 57.71. Meanwhile, Jaele Patrick won the three-meter diving with 410.15 points.

■ Although Vanderpool-Wallace was disappointed with her third-place finish in the 50 free, she shook it off with a victory in the 100 free (46.88). The triumph sent the hometown crowd into a frenzy, as it proved to be Auburn's lone title of the weekend.

■ Florida's Elizabeth Beisel also shook off first-day disappointment. She drew a false start disqualification in prelims of the 200 IM—the first for her since her days as an age grouper. But she battled back, earning valuable team points throughout the meet before winning the 200 back on the meet's final day (1:50.58).

■ IUPUI's Chen Ni became the meet's fifth diver ever to win multiple platform titles. The 2010 titlist scored 343.05 points to win this year's crown. Stanford's Eileen Richetelli is the only three-time winner, while BYU's Courtney Nelson, Miami's Brittany Viola and Texas' Laura Wilkinson each won two. ♦

BY JOHN LOHN • PHOTOS BY PETER H. BICK

The University of California, expected to be in a rebuilding mode after last year's men's title, enjoyed a wire-to-wire victory at the men's NCAA Division I Championships.

Wasn't this supposed to be a rebuilding campaign, a season in which California groomed its young talent to eventually produce another NCAA championship? While most predictions had Texas and Stanford—or, perhaps, Arizona—battling for the ultimate crown in collegiate swimming, Cal was pegged to land in the No. 4 spot—at best.

Well, that's how most people saw things unfolding at the Weyerhaeuser Aquatic Center, March 22-24, in Federal Way, Wash. In his fifth year at the helm of the Cal program, Dave Durden wasn't "most people." As a coach of a high-profile unit, one must be confident in the roster. Durden, though, wasn't just putting on a façade. Rather, he was truly convinced his Golden Bears could repeat their NCAA championship.

Indeed, Durden was right. Fueled by several superb performances from Tom Shields, the Bears' 535.5 points outdistanced the 491 accumulated by the favored Longhorns. Stanford (426.5) secured third place, with Arizona (396) finishing in fourth and Michigan (271) rounding out the top five.

"Everyone kind of looks at our youth or looks at what we lost, and we tend to focus on what we have," Durden said. Cal had 11 returning swimmers who competed in the meet last year, which led Durden to believe that his team had enough experience to know how to navigate the meet and be successful.

Clearly, the lethal combination of senior leadership, talented youth and quality depth paved the way for Cal's championship defense.

CAL'S CONQUEST

Heading into this season, one of the biggest questions facing the Bears concerned their ability to replace the individual excellence of sprinter Nathan Adrian and breaststroker Damir Dugonjic. Both were multi-time NCAA champions, and their void would certainly be felt. But Durden's crew found a way to compensate.

MEN'S NCAA's — continued from 14

Of course, it helps when the roster still features a stud, and Tom Shields fit that description perfectly. While contributions poured in from a variety of athletes, there's no questioning that Shields was the go-to guy. Using his stellar short-course and underwater skills, Shields stormed to Swimmer of the Meet accolades, an honor that resulted from victories in the 100 yard back and 100 fly, along with a runner-up finish in the 200 fly.

Unlike a year ago, when Stanford's Austin Staab denied Shields from completing a difficult double on the second day of competition, Shields pulled off the feat as a junior. He started with a dominant triumph in the 100 fly, defeating runner-up Giles Smith of Arizona by just more than a second with a clocking of 44.76. About an hour later, Shields surged off the final turn and pulled away from Stanford freshman David Nolan to prevail in 44.86. Then, a night later, Shields placed second in the 200 fly (1:41.07) behind teammate Will Hamilton (1:40.94), with that 1-2 finish cementing the championship for the Bears.

Obviously, Shields wasn't just about his individual events. He supplied a jaw-dropping split of 43.56 for the fly leg as he teamed with Mathias Gydesen, Nolan Koon and Tyler Messerschmidt to win the 400 medley relay (3:03.24). He was also a member of three second-place relays.

"I know the projections were all over the place, but we knew (we could win), and I think we showed that's all that ever mattered," Shields said. "It's nice to come back and do it again, and do it in a completely different way."

The title belonged to Cal from the start. After the foursome of Messerschmidt, Shayne Fleming, Fabio Gimondi and Seth Stubblefield—three freshmen and a sophomore—won the opening 200 free relay (1:16.58), the Bears slipped into second place following the 500 free, the first individual event on the program. By the end of the next event (200 IM), the Bears had re-established themselves on top of the heap and never relinquished the lead.

Marcin Tarczynski enabled the Bears to make their move by winning the 200 IM (1:41.97) and was supported by top-three finishes from Martin Liivamagi (100 breast) and Trevor Hoyt (200 breast). With two relay titles and three silver-medal outings in relay events, the Bears' ability to go back-to-back was made possible by a team effort.

"We just had great swimming in all six sessions," said Durden, one of the hottest names on the coaching scene. "We had a couple of misses with some guys, but for the most part, we're just really happy with the consistency with which we swam over the three days."

TEXAS TWO-STEP

Take a look at the last five years in collegiate swimming, and one thing will be apparent: Texas, under the guidance of legendary coach Eddie Reese, has been consistent. This year, two seasons after the Longhorns captured their 10th team title, Texas claimed their fourth runner-up finish in the past five campaigns. Still, there was disappointment for Reese.

PICTURED » Concluding his college career, Texas' Jimmy Feigen was the elite freestyle sprinter of the weekend. He opened his meet with a victory in the 50, and in his last individual outing, he followed three years of silver-medal showings by winning the 100.

"You would think second would be good enough, but it is not," Reese said. "We came in having a shot, and Cal stepped up every time and had a great race. We let down a little bit this morning (Day 3 prelims), and they got up on us. We weren't as good as we needed to be, and that is my fault."

Although the Longhorns came up short in their quest for another team championship, they had plenty of highlights.

Perhaps the most satisfying was a win in the 400 free relay (2:49.83) to close the meet, with Dax Hill, Clay Youngquist, Austin Surhoff and Jimmy Feigen edging Cal and Auburn, which tied for second in 2:50.34. It was the second relay win for the Longhorns, who also prevailed in the 800 free relay (6:15.55 with a team of Hill, Youngquist, Kip Darmody and Neil Caskey).

Concluding his college career, Feigen was the elite sprinter of the weekend. Dubbed for years as a future star of American sprinting, Feigen opened his meet with a victory in the 50 free (19.01). In his last individual outing, he followed three years of silver-medal showings by winning the 100 free in 41.95.

"The 100 free (prelims) scared the daylight out of me because it was a really hard 100 free," said Feigen, who will contend for Olympic berths at the U.S. Trials. "I was weary going into tonight and wanted to get off the blocks as fast as I could. When I saw that I was ahead, I was a little shocked. It fueled my energy level, and I pulled out the win.”

Also a bright spot for the United States in the future, Hill was the titlist in the 200 free (1:32.51), moving up a place from his 2011 showing. On the diving boards, Drew Livingston took top honors in the one-meter event (448.10), was second in the three-meter discipline and finished fourth on the platform.

CARDINAL AND 'CATS

Both Stanford and Arizona were expected to produce strong results at the NCAA Championships, and there were several highlights for both schools. Chad La Tourette had the biggest performance for the Cardinal by placing second in the 1650 free in 14:24.35, an American record.

Meanwhile, freshman standout David Nolan, the top recruit in the country, produced a well-rounded meet with a pair of second-place touches in backstroke as well as a third-place finish in the 200 IM. In the 200 back, he was part of a 2-3-4 finish for the Cardinal, with teammates Matt Thompson and Matt Swanston following Nolan to the wall. Kristian Ipsen won the three-meter diving event (469.20) and finished second on the one-meter.

For Arizona, there was no shortage of top efforts. While the quartet of Mitchell Friedemann, Kevin Cordes, Giles Smith and Adam Small prevailed in the 200 medley relay (1:23.53, an American record), Cordes capped his freshman season by winning the 100 breast in 51.71, just off the American standard of 51.32 that he set in prelims.

In the 200 back, Cory Chitwood mined his third consecutive NCAA crown (1:39.66), holding off Nolan. For Chitwood, who surprisingly failed to qualify for the championship final in either the 200 IM or 100 back, it was a swim of redemption. Other wins for the Wildcats went to Ben Grado in platform diving (487.25) and Austen Thompson in the 400 IM (3:39.15).

“I know my teammates were looking at me to throw down a fast time and get a win for them, and that is all I wanted to do,” Chitwood said. “I didn’t care about any time. I didn’t care about any records. All I wanted to do was put myself in a position where I knew I could win.”

ODDS & ENDS

■ There was little doubt concerning the star of the distance events. That distinction went to Georgia’s Martin Grodzki. After outdueling Southern California’s Cristian Quintero in the 500 (4:12.95 to 4:13.07), Grodzki concluded his meet by breaking Chris Thompson’s 11-year-old NCAA record in the 1650 with a 14:24.08—more than two seconds clear of what Thompson clocked for Michigan in 2001. The German needed every bit of that swim to hold off La Tourette, who broke the American record in his second-place effort.

“I had fun racing with (La Tourette),” Grodzki said. “I had no idea we were going that fast. The race always depends on what the other guy does. I took it out fast, he charged, and I held on, and then he tried to go again. I was lucky to hold him off. Setting a new NCAA record was a goal of mine this season, so I’m happy about that. If (La Tourette) had not been there, I would not have been able to do it.”

■ Finishing ninth in the team standings, Louisville enjoyed a tremendous meet and announced its presence on the national stage. Nothing was more impressive for the Cardinals than the 200 breast victory by Carlos Almeida, who clocked 1:51.88, narrowly defeating Cal’s Trevor Hoyt by 2-hundredths of a second.

■ Michigan’s fifth-place showing was its best since Mike Bottom took the coaching reins. The Wolverines received their best effort from Kyle Whitaker, who was second in the 400 IM. Connor Jaeger checked in with a third-place outing in the 1650 free. ♦

NCAA DIVISION II CHAMPIONSHIPS

*Mansfield ISD Natatorium
Mansfield, Texas*

March 14-17, 2012

Women's Team Champion: Wayne State

Men's Team Champion: Drury University

After three straight years of finishing second, Wayne State University finally captured the women's NCAA Division II Swimming and Diving Championships—by one point!

Drury's women and men had swept both team titles the last three years and were looking for their fourth in a row. The men did their part, beating UC San Diego, 473-400, for their eighth straight men's championship.

And Drury's women nearly did its part. Going into the meet's final day, Wayne State had a sizeable 54.5-point advantage. But Drury kept whittling away at the lead, and by the last event, the 400 yard free relay, the Panthers needed to score 10 more points than Wayne State, which had already won all of the previous four relays. Drury won the final relay, which meant that if the Warriors finished fourth or lower, Drury would win its fourth title in a row and eighth overall.

Wayne State, though, got to the wall 6-tenths of a second faster than Ashland to take third place in the relay and win its first NCAA swimming and diving championship, 497-496. By finishing second, Drury has now finished first or second every year since 1997.

The NCAA

Division II record book took a major beating at the meet: 17 records were equaled or broken in 14 events (four women, 10 men).

California University of Pennsylvania's Melissa Gates blazed to a 22.59 to capture the 50 free record, then lowered it a day later to 22.56 in leading off her team's 200 free relay. Wayne State's Kayla Scott posted a 1:01.58 in prelims of the 100 breast. Indiana University's (Pa.) Jaclyn Hynson finished in 1:58.84 to set the 200 fly mark, while Southern Connecticut State's Amanda Thomas stopped the clock in 2:00.09 for the 200 IM standard.

For the men, Wayne State's Andrey Seryy, who already owned the 50 free record with a 19.39 relay leadoff in 2011, also took down the 100 free record (42.61) and 200 free standard twice (1:35.61 and 1:35.05r). Wingate's Jaroslav Denysenko raced to a 4:21.48 in the 500 free, while Bridgeport's Oscar Pereiro set the 100 back mark with a pair of 46.99s in both individual and relay duty. Florida Southern's Jeffrey Halfacre tracked down the 200 back record in 1:43.41. Additionally, Grand Canyon's Eetu Karvonen produced a 1:56.11 for the 200 breast, and St. Cloud's Christopher White set the standard for 3-meter diving (581.65 points).

Florida Southern also cracked a pair of NCAA DII relay marks, while Drury took down one of its own. FSU's Halfacre, Miguel Ferreira, Davis Janzen and Stephen Swan posted a 3:12.43 in winning the 400 medley relay, while Halfacre, Luis Rojas, Allan Gutierrez and Swan turned in a 6:27.73 in the 800 free relay. Drury's Carlos Viveros, Igor Kowal, Olexandr Padalkin and Vladimir Sidorkin finished in 2:56.42 for the 400 free relay record.

Thomas won Swimmer of the Meet accolades among the women with wins in the 200 and 400 IM (2:00.09, 4:16.25) and a second-place effort of 1:59.11 in the 200 fly. Denysenko snatched the men's Swimmer of the Meet title with triumphs in the 500 and 1000 free (4:21.48, 8:59.13) as well as a second-place finish of 1:35.63 in the 200 free. —By Jason Marsteller

NCAA DIVISION III CHAMPIONSHIPS

IU Natatorium

Indianapolis, Ind.

March 21-24, 2012

Women's Team Champion: Emory University

Men's Team Champion: Denison University

A year after ending Kenyon's 31-year men's winning streak with a one-point victory, Denison posted a much more convincing conquest over Kenyon, 600-519, to repeat as the men's Division III champions. Emory, meanwhile, secured its third straight women's title—and fifth since 2005—beating Williams, 639-453. Additionally, 14 records were broken, with the women posting four and the men, 10.

Williams' Logan Todhunter, who earned women's Swimmer of the Meet honors with her wins in the 100 and 200 yard fly (53.04 and DIII record 1:55.66) and 200 IM (2:00.58), ended her college career by tying Kenyon's Patricia Abt and Carla Ainsworth for most DIII career titles with 11. Teammate Caroline Wilson also won three events: 500 and 1650 free (4:45.45, 16:40.42) and 400 IM (DIII record 4:13.14).

The duo combined to set two relay records with Sarah Thompson and Carolyn Geller: 400 medley relay (3:42.21) and 800 free relay (7:18.15).

Kenyon's Zachary Turk, who was named the men's Swimmer of the Meet, was the NCAA DIII sprint king, downing the record in both the men's 50 and 100 free (19.38p and 43.16). Denison's Allen Weik did the same in the distance freestyle events, setting records in the 500 and 1650 (4:21.79 and 15:04.85). And Robert Barry added two more individual marks for Denison in the 100 and 200 back (46.56r and 1:46.23).

Four of five men's relay records also fell, with Denison and Kenyon each accounting for two. Denison's Barry, Damon Rosenburg, Spencer Fronk and Michael Barczak clocked a 3:15.09 in the 400 medley, while Sean Chabot, Carlos Maciel, Fronk and Weik turned in a 6:30.40 in the 800 free. Kenyon's David Somers, Turk, Ian Richardson and Curtis Ramsey snared the 200 free record with a 1:18.06 during prelims, while Somers, Turk, Ramsey and Richardson took down the 400 free mark in 2:53.59. —By Jason Marsteller

NAIA CHAMPIONSHIPS

Oklahoma City Community

College Aquatic Center

Oklahoma City, Okla.

Feb. 29-Mar. 2, 2012

Women's Team Champion: Fresno Pacific University

Men's Team Champion: Oklahoma Baptist University

Twenty records were broken at the NAIA Championships in Oklahoma City. Having a hand in eight of those marks was Fresno Pacific's Cheyenne Coffmann, named the women's outstanding performer. She bettered individual records in the 50 yard free (22.29), 100 back (52.76, which she won for the fourth straight year) and 200 back (1:58.20). She also led off all five Fresno Pacific NAIA record-setting relays (200 medley, 1:41.40; 400 medley, 3:44.56; 200 free, 1:32.90; 400 free, 3:25.81; 800 free, 7:26.93).

Fresno Pacific earned its first NAIA women's team title with 780 points, ahead of Oklahoma Baptist (578). Also contributing first-place points to Fresno Pacific's cause were Sofie Gjemmetad (200 free, 1:51.44) and Stacy Carter (200 IM, 2:05.04).

Savannah's Catherine Duquet (100 breast, 1:02.09) and Biola's Christine Tixier (100 fly, 54.60) lowered NAIA records. Duquet added a win in the 200 breast (2:16.67).

Other champions included Nicole Wilson, Oklahoma Baptist (500 free, 4:56.90; 400 IM, 4:25.38); Union's Renata Cabral (100 free, 50.73); Heather Librizzi from Savannah (1650 free, 16:58.86) and Cumberland's Charlotte Parent (200 fly, 2:04.95).

In its first year of NAIA competition, Oklahoma Baptist captured the men's team trophy, beating Fresno Pacific by five points, 757-752. Heading into the meet's final event, the 400 free relay, OBU was down by a point. But the Bisons won the relay—and the meet—with an NAIA mark of 2:57.83. The school also set standards in the 200 and 800 free relays (1:19.56 and 6:39.17). Fresno Pacific's medley relays set NAIA standards (200, 1:28.76; 400, 3:15.27).

Alex Graudins, Savannah College, earned the men's outstanding performer award, setting NAIA records in the 500 and 1650 free (4:24.63 and 15:23.97), and also winning the 200 free (1:37.77). Fresno Pacific's Paul-Berne Marie-Rose, who finished 4-hundredths of a second behind Graudens in the 200, set an NAIA record in the 100 (44.31).

Savannah's Ryan Searles posted a 1:45.22 in the prelims of the 200 back for an NAIA record, then won the finals in 1:45.61. He also won the 100 back (48.95).

Nick Schuttinger of Oklahoma Baptist set an NAIA record in the 100 fly (47.46). Maximiliano Abreu (200 fly, 1:49.56) and Daniel Marsden (200 breast, 2:01.09) also collected victories for OBU.

Fresno Pacific's Marko Tanasovski and Jordan Litz each won two events. Tanasovski claimed the 50 free (20.01) and 100 breast (55.18), while Litz doubled in the IM (200, 1:49.35; 400,

Illinois Tech's Ian McNair and Concordia's Christopher Salgado switched 1-2 places in diving. McNair took first in 1-meter (326.85 points) and second in 3-meter (281.00); Salgado came in first in 3-meter (314.55) and second in 1-meter (332.75). —By Judy Jacob

NJCAA CHAMPIONSHIPS Ann Wilder Aquatic Complex

Indian River State College
Fort Pierce, Fla.

March 7-10, 2012

Women's and Men's Team

Champions: Indian River State College

As it has done for more than three decades, Indian River State College (IRSC) swept the team titles at the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) Championships, March 7-10, in Fort Pierce, Fla. The men's streak of 38 years is the longest unbroken championship winning streak in any sport at the collegiate level. The women aren't too far behind with their 31-year run. IRSC coach Ryan Mallam was recognized as Coach of the Year for both men and women.

IRSC's women scored 1,724 points, while its men tallied 1,794.5. In both races, Daytona State placed second (1,195.5 women and 1,253 men).

The Female Swimmer of the Meet, IRSC's Tryshia Centeno, set NJCAA marks in the 100 and 200 yard breast (1:01.81 and 2:14.48)—defending her titles in both—and also captured the 200 IM (2:01.20).

Centeno also contributed to IRSC's record-setting 400 medley (3:42.95) and winning 200 medley (1:44.22), 200 free (1:33.17) and 400 free (3:24.67) relays. Daytona State's 800 free relay squad prevented a sweep with its 7:30.23 win.

Also setting a national record was IRSC's Solyvette Lizardi (200 fly, 2:02.45). She picked up another win in the 100 fly (55.95). Teammates Natalie Lenderman (50 free, 23.50; 100 back, 57.50), Courtney Parenti (500 free, 5:00.04) and Hallie Petersohn (1650 free, 17:09.04) also secured wins for the Lady Pioneers.

Bradley Tandy, the Male Swimmer of the Meet, grabbed victories in the 50 and 100 free (19.18 and 43.12). He also helped IRSC to record-setting efforts in the 200 medley (1:26.65), 200 free (1:17.70) and 400 free (2:54.69) relays, as well as the winning 400 medley relay (3:13.56). IRSC's 800 free relay team won in 6:34.63.

On the men's side, IRSC's Edwin Angjeli picked up three wins: the 200 fly (1:50.05) plus the 200 and 400 IM (1:50.06 and 3:57.41). Three of his teammates earned two wins apiece:

Bryan Clarke (200 and 500 free, 1:38.51 and 4:33.46); Logan Mosley (100 back, 48.77, and 100 fly, 47.59); and Jared Pike, who defended his titles in the breaststrokes (54.70 and 1:59.80).

Daytona State's champions included Sophie Drake (200 free, 1:49.96), Ashly Isaacson (100 free, 50.55) and Katie Pheil (200 back, 2:01.29) plus Takahashi Worrell in the men's 1650 (15:50.78).

Darton's Anna Macht was tops in the 400 IM (4:27.61), while Suffolk County's Alberto Catano claimed the 200 back (1:48.82).

IRSC's Rebecca Schreiber and Otto Lehtonen were named Divers of the Meet. Schreiber took first in 3-meter (372.60 points) and finished second (369.95) to Monroe's Alaiya Tuntemeke in 1-meter (374.00). Lehtonen swept the men's diving titles, earning 531.75 points in 1-meter and 548.10 points in 3-meter. —By Judy Jacob ♦

COUNTRY TIDBITS

Editor's Note: Other than splitting the Americas into north and south regions, Swimming World follows the FINA region and national federation structure as part of its regional spotlights. Unless otherwise indicated, the performances for each of the following swimmers were swum at last year's World Championships in Shanghai, China (July 24-31, 2011).

As of May 1, there are 88 days until the start of the XXXth Olympic Games. Beginning in its January issue and running through June, Swimming World takes a regional look at past successes of swimmers from around the world.

LANE LINES TO LONDON
Olympic Preview: Oceania
BY JASON MARSTELLER
2012

American Samoa (ASA)

Megan Fonteno had the top performances for her country with a 35th-place 26.46 in the women's 50 free and a 43rd-place 57.85 in the 100.

Australia (AUS)

James Magnussen, known as "The Missile" in Australia, dominated the sprint free events at the Australian Olympic Trials. First, he lowered his textile best time with a 47.10 in the men's 100 free, then he moved to the top of the world in the men's 50 with a 21.74. Meanwhile, veteran Olympians Ian Thorpe, Geoff Huegill and Michael Klim failed to qualify for London. Libby Trickett's comeback, however, was successful, as she earned a spot on the Aussie team as a relay member.

Cook Islands (COK)

Celeste Brown paced her country with a 58th-place 29.59 in the women's 50 free and a 65th-place 1:05.76 in the 100 free.

Fiji Islands (FIJ)

Matelita Buadromo clocked a 32nd-place 2:44.01 in the women's 200 breast and a 38th-place 1:14.70 in the 100 breast.

Federated States of Micronesia (FSM)

Kerson Hadley led his nation with a 33rd-place 30.46 in the men's 50 back, and a 69th-place 25.72 in the 50 free.

Guam (GUM)

Pilar Shimizu turned in a 41st-place 1:21.19 in the women's 100 breast and a 55th-place 28.71 in the 50 free.

Marshall Islands (MHL)

Ann-Marie Hepler posted a 39th-place 30.69 in the women's 50 fly for her nation's best effort. She also finished 53rd in the 50 free with a 28.43.

New Zealand (NZL)

New Zealand finished 19th in the team standings, led by the likes of Glenn Snyders and Lauren Boyle. Boyle finished sixth in the women's 400 free (4:06.11), eighth in the 800 (8:32.72) and 12th in the 200 (1:58.09). Snyders placed ninth in the men's 50 breast (27.64), 10th in the 200 breast (2:11.68) and 13th in the 100 breast (1:00.59). Additionally, Gareth Kean clocked a 53.50 for eighth in the men's 100 back.

Northern Mariana Islands (NMA)

Victoria Chentsova hit the wall in 5:18.67 to finish 36th in the women's 400 free. She also placed 47th in the 200 free with a 2:27.86.

Lauren Boyle, a three-time All-American swimmer during her senior season at the University of California in 2010, finished last year ranked No. 11 in the women's 400 meter free (4:05.86) and 13th in the 800 (8:26.30).

Two years ago, she helped New Zealand win the silver medal in the women's 800 free relay at the Commonwealth Games, along with Penelope Marshall, Amaka Gessler and Natasha Hind. She also was a member of the 2006 Commonwealth Games relay squad—with Helen Norfolk, Alison Fitch and Melissa Ingram—that captured the bronze medal in the same event.

The 24-year-old will face a formidable challenge at this summer's Olympics in the 400 and 800 free, as both events are loaded with top-flight distance swimmers, including the likes of Italy's Federica Pellegrini, Great Britain's Rebecca Adlington, France's Camille Muffat and Denmark's Lotte Friis. ♦

ABOVE » Lauren Boyle, a 2008 Olympian, finished sixth in the women's 400 free at last year's World Championships in Shanghai. She also placed eighth in the 800 and 12th in the 200.

Palau (PLW)

Keesha Keane stopped the clock in 29.33 in the women's 50 free to take 57th. She also finished 67th in the 100 free in 1:06.15.

Papua New Guinea (PNG)

Veteran Ryan Pini continued to lead Papua New Guinea in swimming at last summer's World Championships, finishing 20th in the men's 100 fly (52.69). He also took 25th in the 50 fly (24.26), 38th in the 200 free (1:52.23) and 41st in the 100 free (50.34).

Tahiti (TAH)

Kuheilani Snow checked in with a 44th-place 32.27 in the women's 50 fly. She also clocked a 1:05.99 in the 100 free for 66th.

Kingdom of Tonga (TGA)

Amini Fonua placed 25th in the men's 50 breast (28.23) and 59th in the 100 breast (1:04.02).

2012 OLYMPIC PREVIEW

Open Water

BY STEVEN MUNATONES

The women's and men's 2012 Olympic 10K Marathon Swim will be held in the Serpentine, a 28-acre recreational lake in London's Hyde Park.

The first Olympic open water qualifier for London took place at last summer's World Swimming Championships in Shanghai. From that competition, 20 athletes earned their spots for the women's and men's 2012 Olympic 10K Marathon Swim. Another 15 women and 15 men will join them after competing in a qualification race in Setúbal, Portugal, June 9-10.

By the time the six-loop, 10,000-meter race takes place Aug. 9 (women) and Aug. 10 (men) in the Serpentine in London's Hyde Park, these Olympians can expect the following:

- A tactical race in which there will be dozens of right-hand turns around giant, colorful turn buoys.
- A tight, physical, 25-person pack around a kidney bean-shaped course.
- Dark, cool waters lower than 68 degrees Fahrenheit.
- A fast start from randomly determined positions.
- An introduction in front of tens of thousands who will line the banks of the course.
- An electrifying ambience, where the swimmers will always be in close proximity to the spectators.
- A venue created during the reign of Queen Caroline in 1730.
- A tremendously fast pace in the women's race set by Great Britain's Keri-Anne Payne.
- An extremely fast finish in the men's race from Germany's Thomas Lurz and Greece's Spyridon Gianniotis.
- Plenty of whistles (warnings) and yellow cards (infractions)—and, possibly, a few red cards (disqualifications).

QUALIFYING FOR THE U.S. TEAM

Alex Meyer already qualified for the American men's team at the World Championships. However, under FINA rules, a second American man could only have qualified if he also had placed in the top 10. In contrast, the American women got a second chance because Christine Jennings and Eva Fabian both finished out of the top 10 at Worlds.

Two American women were selected from the U.S. Open Water Trials in Fort Myers, Fla. in late April (after the magazine's deadline) for the opportunity to compete in Setúbal for the final qualification round in which only one swimmer per country can advance to the Olympics. Among the favorites heading into the U.S. Trials were Ashley Twichell, Eva Fabian, Emily Brunemann and Christine Jennings.

TRAINING FOR THE OLYMPIC FINAL

After qualifying for the Olympic 10K final, many open water swimmers train at high altitude and undergo various forms of acclimatization. The athletes must develop an optimal combination of pool workouts that maintain their speed and aerobic capacity, and open water training in venues that are 10-15 F lower than the pool.

Racing tactics and optimal feeding patterns can be fine-tuned at local open water swims and at pro races. The Midmar Mile and the Cadiz Freedom Swim in South Africa, the New Zealand Ocean Swim Series, the British Gas Great Swim Series and FINA World Cup Series are races in which Olympians can swim against world-class competition. ♦

Montreal, Canada

Top swimming nations:

USA, 34 medals (13G, 14S, 7B)
East Germany, 19 medals (11G, 6S, 2B)
Soviet Union, 9 medals (1G, 3S, 5B)

Number of swimming events: 26

"Domination" was the keyword at Montreal. The East German women, led by Kornelia Ender (four gold, one silver) won 11 of 13 events. The American men did one better, capturing 12 gold medals! They also took home 25 of 33 individual medals, distinguishing themselves as the most dominant team in Olympic history.

Leading the way for the U.S. men was John Naber, who, like Ender, won four gold and one silver medal. The Americans even swept all three medals in four events, prompting a new rule that countries could only enter two swimmers per event (instead of three), which was eventually implemented in 1984.

The East German women's success was met with more than a little skepticism. Swimming World would later prove that the East German Wundermädchen were being systematically doped. Sadly, none of the medals they received or records they set were ever revoked.

Shirley Babashoff was an outspoken victim of the East German doping. She won four silver medals behind GDR swimmers and was portrayed as a bitter loser by much of the media. But the American women (Kim Peyton, Wendy Boglioli, Jill Sterkel and Babashoff) saved the best for last, beating the East Germans in the 400 free relay in world record time.

Moscow, USSR

Top swimming nations:

East Germany, 30 medals (12G, 10S, 8B)
Soviet Union, 22 medals (8G, 9S, 5B)
Sweden, 5 medals (2G, 2S, 1B)

Number of swimming events: 26

With the United States leading a 61-nation boycott of the Moscow Olympics, the stage was set for Eastern bloc countries to shine.

The East German women took advantage, matching their gold medal tally (11) from Montreal and winning 24 of 33 individual medals—one shy of the U.S. men's total in 1976.

The GDR's Barbara Krause broke the 55-second barrier in winning the 100 free. Michelle Ford competed in Moscow despite Australia's decision to boycott, and won the 800 free by more than three seconds.

Petra Schneider's winning time of 4:36.29 in the 400 IM had the distinction of being the longest-surviving Olympic record, lasting 20 years, 1 month and 21 days.

Vladimir Salnikov broke the 15-minute barrier in the 1500 freestyle (14:58.27) and nearly broke his world record in winning the 400 free.

Los Angeles, USA

Top swimming nations:

United States, 34 medals (21G, 13S)
Canada, 10 medals (4G, 3S, 3B)
West Germany, 11 medals (2G, 3S, 6B)

Number of swimming events: 29

The countries represented on the medal stand in Los Angeles were a mirror image of what was seen in Moscow. The United States showcased many of the swimmers who were robbed of a chance to dominate in 1980, including Tracy Caulkins, Mary T. Meagher and Rowdy Gaines.

Canada was also well represented, with gold medal efforts from Alex Baumann (200-400 IM) plus Victor Davis and Anne Ottenbrite (200 breast).

A historic moment took place in the women's 100 free, as the USA's Nancy Hogshead and Carrie Steinseifer tied for first, with both women being awarded gold medals. Unlike the finish of the men's 400 IM in 1972, in which Gunnar Larsson and Tim McKee clocked identical times (4:31.98), officials did not go to the thousandth of a second to determine a winner.

In the men's 800 freestyle relay, the American men—later known as the "Gross Busters"—beat the favored West Germans (led by Michael Gross with two gold, two silver) by 4-hundredths of a second! ♦

Curl-Burke captured its second straight combined team championship at the NCSA Junior Nationals—its fifth title in the last 10 years.

NCSA JUNIOR NATIONALS

Orlando, Fla.

March 20-24

The National Club Swimming Association (NCSA) Spring Junior Nationals appears to be Curl-Burke Swim Club's personal playground. All it's done in the last 10 years is win five national championships and finish second four times and third once. Throw in its top three finishes in the women's and men's divisions, and Curl-Burke has nine first-place titles, 11 runners-up and seven third-place showings.

This year's meet (short course yards prelims, long course finals) was no exception: first in the combined team standings (its second in a row), first among the women and second among the men.

The club's top star was Katie Ledecky, who just turned 15. She won four events—200, 400 and 800 meter free (2:00.46, 4:08.87 and 8:33.48) and the 1650 yard free (15:40.38). She also had the top time in the 500 yard free prelims (4:43.09).

Ledecky's 1650 time—No. 6 on the all-time performance list—edged Kate Ziegler's 15-16 national age group record of 15:40.89 from 2005 and would have placed third at the women's NCAA Division I Championship a week earlier. Her 1000 split of 9:25.07—No. 3 all-time—also bettered Ziegler's NAG mark of 9:25.51 from 2005. (See "How They Train Katie Ledecky," page 32.)

BOOTSMA SHINES IN FINAL NCSA MEET

The Aquajets' Rachel Bootsma, who won a record nine gold medals at last year's meet, added seven first-place titles in her final NCSA Juniors. She easily won the women's high-point award, ahead of Curl-Burke's Janet Hu.

The University of California freshman-to-be came within 4-hundredths of Hayley McGregor's 2008 American record in winning the women's 50 meter back in 27.84.

Bootsma also won the 100 free (56.02), 100 back (1:00.02) and 100 fly (1:00.63) to go along with three relay gold medals. And she posted top short course times during prelims in the 100 and 200 yard free (48.78 and 1:47.22); 50 and 100 back (24.15 and 51.27); 50, 100 and 200 fly (23.73, 52.05 and 1:55.57); and the 200 IM (1:59.28).

MALONE, CONGER LEAD THE MEN

New Trier's Reed Malone edged Rockville Montgomery's Jack Conger for the men's high-point award by 1-1/2 points.

Malone, with five gold medals, teamed with Sam Skinner, Jack Mangan and Max Grodecki to break the men's 15-18 national age group record in the 800 yard free relay (6:33.41), lowering the 2009 mark of 6:34.84 by SwimMAC. The quartet, which became the first high school team to post an official sub-3:00 400 free relay last February (2:59.76), repeated the feat as a club team with a winning 2:58.20.

Conger finished the meet with six gold medals, but Malone earned the high-point trophy by scoring in seven individual events versus Conger's six. ♦

The NCSA Juniors were broadcast live via pay-per-view on SwimmingWorld.TV. On-demand races are available in the SwimmingWorld.TV archive for all of our readers. Online Premium Members click here at www.SwimmingWorldMagazine.com to go directly to SwimmingWorld.TV.

DEFINING MOMENTS
Consistently at the Top
BY JASON MARSTELLER

1 BALL PUSH-UPS. Start with one hand on the ball and the other on the floor. Perform standard push-ups for five reps, then switch the ball to the other hand for six reps. Beginner push-ups should be performed from the knees; advanced, from the feet.

DRYSIDE TRAINING

6 GREAT MEDICINE BALL EXERCISES

BY J.R. ROSANIA • PHOTOS BY KAITLIN KELLY

DEMONSTRATED BY SAMANTHA CALDWELL AND J.R. ROSANIA

Looking for a fast, effective workout to do at home with minimal equipment?

I have just the thing.

Medicine balls are designed for multiple exercises and movements with resistance. In this month's article, I will illustrate several great medicine ball exercises that, when performed three times a week, will improve your overall strength, conditioning and swimming performance. These exercises are functional and swim-specific, which will help with your body position in the water and power generated in the pool.

Perform each exercise for three sets of 10 to 20 reps. Start with 10 reps, and try to increase by two additional reps per week. Exercises should be performed with a medicine ball that weighs four to six pounds for women and eight to 10 pounds for men.

In three to four months, you will notice better stroke technique, more distance per stroke and better distance per wall push-offs. ♦

2 BALL THROW-DOWNS. Start by raising the medicine ball directly overhead. Slowly get your hands on top of the ball. While keeping your arms straight, drive the ball downward to the floor. Catch the ball as it returns, and raise it up to the starting position.

J.R. Rosania, B.S., Exercise Science, is one of the nation's top performance enhancement coaches. He is the owner and CEO of Healthplex, LLC, and has finished the Ironman Triathlon 18 times. He also serves as Swimming World Magazine's fitness trainer and was named one of "America's Top Trainers" by Men's Journal and Vogue magazines. Check out Rosania's website at www.jrhealthplex.net.

3 SIT-UP TO KNEES. Start by lying on your back with your knees bent, holding the med ball at your chest. Perform a standard sit-up while holding the med ball, and raise the ball over your knees. Return to your starting position and repeat.

4 BALL BICYCLE. In a seated position with the med ball in hand, begin a bicycle movement with your legs and deliver the ball between your legs as you cycle.

6b

5 BALL TWISTING. In a seated position with the med ball in hand, lean back slightly and begin a full side-to-side motion.

6 LUNGE WITH BALL TWIST. Begin a traditional lunge movement. While holding a med ball, perform a full twisting side-to-side movement at the bottom of the lunge. Repeat for each leg.

Q&A WITH COACH YURI SUGUIYAMA

COACH YURI SUGUIYAMA

BY MICHAEL J. STOTT

After an impressive career at the University of North Carolina, Yuri Suguiyama returned to his Curl-Burke swimming roots, where he is now a mentor to rising distance star Katie Ledecky.

Head Coach
Georgetown Prep Facility
Curl-Burke Swim Club
North Bethesda, Maryland

Coach Yuri Suguiyama (University of North Carolina, B.A., political science and economics, '04) was a captain of the swimming team and a four-year letterman. Aside from a brief Wachovia Bank stint, he has remained in aquatics, serving as Southern Village Swim Club (Chapel Hill) head coach and assistant at the North Carolina Aquatic Club. Presently, he is the head coach at the Georgetown Prep facility in North Bethesda, Md. Last October, he was named Potomac Valley Swimming Coach of the Year. In addition to a diploma, Suguiyama left UNC as the ACC champion in the 200 yard free (1:37.33) and school record holder in the 1000 and 1650 freestyles (9:09.52, 15:05.10). In 2006-07, he was a coach of the Potomac Valley Zone Team.

Q Swimming World:
• You started coaching
• at age 16. What was the motivation?

A: Coach Yuri Suguiyama:
I loved the sport and working with kids. A small community pool was willing to give me a chance. I learned a lot about teaching strokes and interacting with parents. Thirteen years later, some of my 8-and-unders are still swimming.

Rick Curl helped you as a swimmer and as a coach, yes?

Rick cared about me as a person first and an athlete second. That's why we were willing to swim through walls for him. As a colleague, Rick has an ability to always find silver linings. Whether it's a pool or troublesome parent issue, Rick stays positive and finds a solution.

After college, why not get a "real job"?

I did—working on Wachovia Bank's trading floor for three months. It was exciting at times and challenging, but sitting in front of a computer and making money for a bank wasn't how I wanted to spend my days. Rick called me from Australia. I mentioned that I was having second thoughts about banking. He called me back and offered me a position.

Talk about your coaching style and philosophy.

Legendary UNC soccer coach Anson Dorrance says, "I respect talent, but I admire courage." That sums up the way I coach. It takes courage to commit yourself to be the best you can be, especially when there's no guarantee of success. It also takes courage to come to the pool every day and push yourself to your physical limit. I challenge my athletes always to give their best effort. Sometimes that means asking them to do things they don't want to do.

At what point do you introduce dryland to your athletes?

We start doing a basic form of dryland training at the 12-and-under level—push-ups, squats, jumping jacks, lunges, and then progress from there. Each day, our senior swimmers have a dynamic warm-up routine designed to loosen up their shoulders and wake up their system. We also run for six weeks in the fall and another six weeks in the spring.

What about weight training?

My senior group consists mostly of freshmen and sophomores. I don't consider weight training essential for them yet. I'd rather see 20 proper push-ups than bench or dead-lift. It's important that there's a progression in the career of every swimmer. For those with aspirations to swim in college, there will be plenty of time to strength train. However, we do swim with parachutes and resistance cords, and I consider that to be a poor man's weight training.

By what principles do you want your swimmers to live?

From John Flanagan—another CUBU coach and mentor—I borrowed the idea of P.R.I.D.E., which stands for Personal Responsibility in Daily Effort. I want my swimmers to be accountable for their actions in and out of the pool.

The other is doing “something special” every day. Leading up to the 2000 Olympic Trials and Games, Rick and Tom Dolan emphasized that every day you should try and do something special during practice.

At the 2011 NCSA Junior Nationals, your boys finished first, the girls third, and you won the combined team title. Is CUBU making a resurgence?

Yes. We've added more swimmers over the past three years, and they're swimming faster than ever. Also, our success has been driven by other clubs around us, specifically North Baltimore, NOVA of Virginia and Rockville Montgomery. Those are three of the best teams in the country. We race them frequently. My first year coaching, NBAC beat us handily in the dual meet, with my site contributing very few points. That score was motivation for a long time.

(Editor's Note: at the most recent NCSA Junior Nationals held at Orlando, Fla., in March, Curl-Burke finished first among the girls, second among the boys, and won the combined team title for the second straight year.)

How do you progress someone such as Katie Ledecky?

From an early age, we have done annual early season goal setting with an eye to her future. Rick and our senior-level coaches—Pete Morgan, John Flanagan, Jeff King and Tim Kelly—have always advised me not to rush the process. Katie could have skipped some steps, but she has learned from each experience and still moved up the competitive ladder. Some people questioned us not taking her to nationals this past summer, but I think it was great that she was able to go to juniors, win (four) races and win the high-point award.

As a fairly young coach on a national stage with a young superstar, do you have any concerns?

I want to make sure that I'm doing right by my swimmers—especially with one as committed and hard working as Katie. Just as they're continually growing and learning about the sport and themselves, so am I as a coach. I keep meticulous notes on every practice, and at season's end, I reflect on what worked and what didn't. I also love comparing practice notes with the likes of John Flanagan.

In training Katie Ledecky, does it help that you were an outstanding middle and distance freestyler?

It's a big plus. There is something honest and pure about training and racing longer swims, and I love coaching them. I still remember the various thoughts I had during tough races, so I try and design sets to help my swimmers cope with those feelings.

How do you keep your athletes fresh and motivated?

That's every senior coach's challenge. I make all of my swimmers—regardless of age—train IM almost daily. When I was 15 until 17, I swam freestyle every lap, every day in practice. That was physically and mentally tough. I continually communicate with swimmers and help them set goals and manage expectations. Swimmers burn out when they stop improving, but sometimes they stop improving because they aren't doing what they need to do to improve. Recognizing and acknowledging where they're stumbling can go a long way to keeping them engaged with the sport.

Your long-term goal for your swimmers is to be successful in the water and out. How about for yourself?

I hope to coach for as long as Curl-Burke lets me. I really enjoy watching the swimmers mature and learn from our sport. I've heard it said that “if you find something you love to do, you'll never have to work another day in your life.” If that's the case, I haven't really been working for the last six years! ♦

KATIE LEDECKY

BY MICHAEL J. STOTT

American swimming has a knack for producing refreshing new faces. In the past four years, we've seen the likes of Elizabeth Beisel and Missy Franklin attain "real-deal" status. Poised to join them is Curl-Burke's Katie Ledecy.

Just 14 in February, she shot to fourth in the world rankings in the 800 free with an 8:30.14. Earlier, she bested two national age group 13-14 standards by posting a 4:35.14 in the 500 free (old record, Sippy Woodhead, 4:39.94) and a 9:29.81 in the 1000 (Michele Richardson, 9:33.39).

At the Missouri Grand Prix in February, her 2:00.01 clocking in the 200 meter free left her 1-hundredth of a second shy of becoming the fifth 13-14-year-old girl to break two minutes.

Ledecy turned 15 in mid-March, just before the NCSA Juniors in Orlando, Fla. (See "Defining Moments," page 27, to read about her accomplishments at that meet.) She will head to Omaha this summer with Olympic Trials cuts in the 100, 200, 400 and 800 meter freestyles.

These days, the 5-11 Ledecy trains eight sessions a week. Three are combined with a dry-land focus on shoulder strength and stabilization through the use of stretch cords.

"What sets her apart is her great work ethic and inner drive," says her coach, Yuri Sugiyama. "From hard work, Katie has developed a big aerobic engine along with an uncanny ability to get better during a tough swim, set or even week. She's incredibly consistent in her practice attendance and usually the first person in the water. In four years of coaching her, I can count on one hand the number of practices she's missed due to something other than illness," he says.

"At the beginning of each season, she and I always sit down and set both short-term and long-term goals. The difference between Katie and others is that she has always understood that while goal setting is a great exercise, it's more important to focus on how to reach those goals.

"From a very early age, we noticed that Katie loved to race. The bigger the race, the more she seems to enjoy the challenge. She will give her best effort regardless of how she is feeling. Deep down, she really embraces the personal challenges involved in our sport.

"There are two sides to Katie," says Sugiyama. "Out of the water, she is a very nice and humble person who is a great teammate and a positive role model for our training site and club. However, in the water, she is a fierce competitor who hates to lose and is mentally tough. I can give her sets to do by herself or have her come in on her own for extra work, and she doesn't bat an eye.

"As great an athlete as she is, she's an even better person. She's smart, humble, unassuming and comes from a great family. I've always been impressed with Katie's ability to handle her success and failures with a grace and maturity that belies her age," he says. This is especially obvious when one observes her adult manner and comfort with media.

Expect that ability to be put on display when Trials begin in late June. Will Ledecy make the team? Time will tell. In the interim, Sugiyama believes the sky is the limit.

"Over the next few years, Katie can definitely improve her overall physical strength. That great aerobic engine we've built isn't going anywhere, so I feel like if she can improve her overall coordination, body and core strength, she will continue to find ways to swim fast." ♦

When Is a Heat Considered “Closed”?

At what point is a heat considered “closed” and the first alternate called? Here’s how Clark Hammond, the national officials chair, sees it:

There has been some belief that the raising of the arm by the referee “closes the heat,” and that any swimmer who steps up on the block after the arm is extended should be disqualified for “delay of meet.”

However, there is nothing in the rules that states that once the arm is raised, the heat is closed. The raising of the arm merely means that the heat is turned over to the starter. If the referee determines that a swimmer was somehow prevented from getting to the blocks, then the referee is well within the rules to allow the swimmer to compete.

A referee can and should intervene at any time to make sure the conditions for racing are fair and equitable for all swimmers.

With respect to finals, there is no requirement that the referee step the swimmers up on the blocks and raise his arm to close the heat before the alternate is called. In fact, such a practice would seem to be unsettling to the other swimmers waiting to swim.

If a referee observes that there is an open lane in the first finals heat, and he determines that the swimmer is not present, he can call for the alternate without stepping up the heat and raising his arm.

The real problem occurs when the referee calls for the alternate, and the swimmer originally set to swim shows up late. Again, the referee should investigate and determine if there is a valid reason for this happening.

Here’s an example: at a recent national meet, a swimmer failed to appear behind the blocks for the backstroke. The referee stepped the swimmers into the pool and noticed the missing swimmer. She called for the alternate, who appeared ready to swim.

At this point, the original swimmer showed up. His excuse was that he was a foreign athlete who was waiting in the ready room to be brought to the blocks.

Should the swimmer be disqualified or allowed to swim? Some would say that the alternate should swim because the original swimmer failed to appear ready to swim. Others would say that the original swimmer should be allowed to swim based on the situation.

Well, the swimmer was allowed to swim, and I agree with the decision.

Too many times, folks want black-and-white rules, but some of our rules are written so that the officials can make a right call at the time, depending on the situation. ♦

MAXWELL MEDALS & AWARDS

Excellence Award

Herb Schwab is recognized as one of the premier officials in Texas, and is, perhaps, considered one of the two best administrative referees in the state. He serves as meet referee or administrative referee for many major competitions. He is characterized as a willing, cooperative, swimmer-friendly official who is sought out to serve at many venues throughout the state, including the Texas Swimming Center at the University of Texas. He is also very active in leadership roles within the LSC, currently serving as general chair and previously as administrative vice-chair. He has been instrumental in the LSC achieving LEAP Level 2 status, and he maintains the documentation of the LSC, such as bylaw revisions and updates of the policies and procedures. Schwab also travels around the country and serves as the administrative referee for many Masters competitions, including Masters nationals.

CALIFORNIA

Palo Alto Stanford Aquatics scored 914 points to claim the combined team title at Far Westerns, March 29-April 1, in Morgan Hill, ahead of Santa Clara (561) and Pleasanton SeaHawks (399).

Five swimmers each bettered two meet records: Aidan Burns, unattached (13-14 boys 100 and 200 back, 51.82 and 1:50.33); Aaron Kuo, Palo Alto Stanford (10-and-under boys 100 free, 56.10; 100 IM, 1:03.90); Audrey Lukawski, Koret Youth (10-and-under girls 50 and 100 breast, 33.18 and 1:09.96); Austin Nguyen, Pacific Swim (11-12 boys 100 and 200 breast, 1:03.70 and 2:17.87); and Curtis Ogren, unattached (15-16 boys 100 breast, 56.60; 200 IM, 1:50.61).

FLORIDA

Bolles School Sharks scored 1,856 points for the combined team trophy at the Florida Swimming Spring Senior Championships, Feb. 23-26, in Orlando, ahead of Tampa Bay Community Aquatics (1,190) and Sarasota YMCA Sharks (841). Evening finals were swum long course, but prelims and timed finals were swum short course yards.

Bolles' Genevieve Miller was the 14-16 girls high-point champion, placing first in the 1650 yard free (16:52.77), second in the 400 meter free (4:22.40), fifth in the 100 and 200 free (1:00.46 and 2:10.20), seventh in the 200 fly (2:28.21) and eighth in the 400 IM (5:19.94). Ryan MacRae, Palm Harbor YMCA, topped the 14-16 boys, finishing first in the 100 free (52.92), second in the 50 and 200 free (24.63 and 1:55.83) and 200 back (2:14.15), fifth in the 100 back (1:01.21) and seventh in the 100 fly (59.75).

In the senior division, Clearwater's Sydney Pickrem and Sebastien Rousseau, unattached, claimed high-point honors. Pickrem was first in the 100 and 200 back (1:04.99 and 2:17.28), 100 and 200 breast (1:13.35 and 2:34.48) and 200 IM (2:18.20). Rousseau placed first in the 200 fly

(2:02.73), second in the 200 IM (2:05.95), third in the 400 IM (4:29.47), fourth in the 400 free (4:06.04) and 200 back (2:09.52) and sixth in the 200 free (1:55.52).

NEW JERSEY

Atlantic City's Destin Lesko (Swimming World's NAG Record Setter in April) added the 100 yard back national age group mark at the Middle Atlantic Junior Olympics, March 10, in Sewell, clocking 1:00.75 to erase Michael Andrew's 2010 mark of 1:00.80. He also was victorious in nine other events, easily capturing the 10-and-under boys high-point trophy: 50, 100, 200 and 500 free (26.17, 56.14, 2:02.21, 5:22.78); 50 and 100 back (28.81, 1:00.75); 50 and 100 fly (29.09, 1:05.16); and the 100 and 200 IM (1:04.04, 2:16.22).

VIRGINIA

Curly-Burke scored 1,458 points to capture the team title at the Potomac Valley LSC Senior Championships, March 8-11, in Fairfax. Rockville-Montgomery finished second (282.5), followed by Potomac Marlins (246). Curly-Burke's Janet Hu set a Potomac Valley Open LSC mark with her 49.54 in the 100 yard free. She also claimed first in the 50 and 200 free (22.86, 1:47.77) and 200 IM (2:00.77). Her teammates, Megan Byrnes (500 and 1000 free, 4:57.95 and 10:03.55) and Kathleen Leducky (1650 free, 15:59.35; 200 IM, 2:00.61), each won two events. Individual titlists for Curly-Burke were Joseph Pascale (50 free, 20.84), Christopher Grimmatt-Norris (100 free, 47.37), Brian Tsau (1000 free, 9:24.98), Kyle Tyrrell (100 back, 51.60), Andrew Seliskar (200 back, 1:50.53), Carsten Vissering (200 breast, 2:04.25), Stephen Seliskar (200 fly, 1:51.88) and Cyrus Hashemi (200 IM, 1:55.76).

Herndon's Jenna Van Camp (women's 100 and 200 breast, 1:02.88 and 2:18.55) and Snow's Matthew Haupt (men's 200 free, 1:42.61; 400 IM, 4:06.21) were double champs. ♦

AGE GROUP SWIMMER of the MONTH

Cathy Copeland, who coaches Tucson "Tan" Dunn III, describes him as someone "who comes to practice with a positive attitude, who challenges his teammates and is always willing to help."

At last summer's Georgia 14-and-Under Long Course Championships in Augusta, Dunn finished second in the 50 meter back (31.59), third in the 50 free (28.00) and 100-200 back (1:08.63 and 2:30.61), fourth in the 50 fly (30.81), fifth in the 100 free (1:01.59) and seventh in the 100 fly (1:10.43).

He then earned the right to compete at the Southern Zone Championships, July 26-30, in Cary, N.C., where he finished fifth in the 50 and 100 meter back (31.05 and 1:08.06).

In the final 2010-11 USA Swimming National Age Group (NAG) Top 10 long course list, Dunn ranked first in the 11-year-old boys 50 and 100 meter back (31.05 and 1:08.06), fourth in the 50 and 100 free (28.00 and 1:01.53), eighth in the 200 back (2:30.61) and 10th in the 50 fly (30.76).

During the short course season, he earned the 11-12 boys high-point award at the Georgia 14-and-Under Short Course Championships, Feb. 24-26, in Atlanta, finishing first in the 50, 100 and 200 yard free (23.20, 51.62, 1:54.23), 50 and 100 back (26.74, 56.27), 50 fly (25.43) plus the 100 and 200 IM (58.82, 2:10.64). He also placed third in the 200 back (2:11.58).

In the NAG Top 10 short course list (as of early April), Dunn had posted fourth-place times in the 12-year-old boys 50 and 100 yard back (26.35 and 56.27), and was ranked fifth in the 50 free (23.20) and seventh in the 50 fly (25.43). He is looking forward to competing at this summer's state championships and Southern Zones. ♦

ENGINEERED IN PURSUIT OF GOLD

Built in America. Engineered in pursuit of gold. The TYR AP12 speedsuit series redefines the physics of fast. Its turbo compression fabric, anatomically engineered fit, and bonded four-way lock seams combine to create a ruthless force in the water. Muscles will fire faster, blood flow will be increased, and body position will be optimized. This speedsuit series, with its state-of-the-art design is the essence of our brand – uncompromisingly superior, unmistakably TYR.
